				That ends the interview, but now I'd like to tell you about an exciting opportunity. A consortium of European universities, called EuroPolis, which has commissioned this survey, would like to invite you to come to Brussels, Belgium to discuss the issues we've just been talking about with 400 other people we've interviewed from all 27 Member States of the European Union.
				You have been selected as part of a scientific sample to represent the people of your country. Don't worry if you have never thought much about any of these issues; you do not need to be an expert. Your opinion counts very much in the process.
				The discussions will take place on the weekend from 29th to 31st May 2009.
				Since you will be talking with people from other countries, simultaneous translation will be provided. There will be television and press coverage in many different countries and we also expect important political leaders to be present.
				All your expenses will be paid; travel, a top quality hotel and food —plus, as a token of appreciation, an honorarium of 80 euros [MENTION THE APPROXIMATE VALUE IN NATIONAL CURRENCY].
				We really want you to be part of this process and we think you will enjoy the discussions and getting to know people from so many different countries.
